36 CANDIDATES OUT FOR BASEBALL

First Call For Battery and Infield Men

PROSPECTS BRIGHT

Five Veterans on Squad—First Cut Saturday

Fourteen pitchers, five catchers and seventeen infielders have answered Coach Dave Morey's first call for battery and infield candidates, and are practicing daily in the gym and on dry places on the campus. The general prospects are much brighter for a successful team than last year. Especially there is indication of a much stronger and more reliable infield for there are enough men out to provide keen competition for these positions.

Five Veterans Out

Of the candidates five are veteran letter men of last season's nine. Pitchers "Ike" Hulihan and "P. O." Hastings lead the list for the hurling squad, while Gallagher and Captain Timberman are competing for the first base job. Stockwell has shifted from short to third this season.

The teams thus far have been working under a great handicap due to the fact that they are unable to use the gym but three afternoons each week, the other afternoons being occupied by the girls gym classes. With an 8 or 10 game trip during the Easter vacation, these conditions make it difficult for the giving of each man a thorough tryout. Coach Morey is bending every effort to get a first string squad selected and work it into shape for the Easter trip.

Porter Field in Poor Condition

Coach Morey called attention to the very bad condition of the diamond on Porter Field, due in most part to the football games of last season. He states that unless the field is greatly improved poor baseball will result on

WEST MASS. ALUMNI HOLD BANQUET SAT.

Thirty-Six Hear Speaches by President Moody, H. L. Bailey '86 and A. F. Gollnick '22

Special to The Campus

The annual banquet of the Western Massachusetts Alumni Association was held at The Oaks, Springfield, Mass., Saturday evening March 11, 1922. Thirty-six gathered around the table at seven. These thirty-six were scattered among the different classes from 1873 to the class of 1922.

Roy D. Harris, president of the association, presided at the after-dinner speaking. The first speaker of the evening was Henry Lincoln Bailey '86 who introduced President Moody in an interesting manner, by reviewing in a short way the lives and important works of all former presidents of Middlebury. President Moody responded by speaking on the present and future of Middlebury. The alumni and alumnae present showed that they were behind President Moody in his work at Middlebury. Albert F. Gollnick '22 followed with a very interesting talk on the present day athletic situation. Dean Edgar J. Wiley '13 spoke on Vocational Guidance and what is being done along this line at Middlebury.

It was voted to consolidate all the offices into one and this to be called President and General Manager. Mr. Frederick L. Fish '16 was elected to serve in this capacity for the following year.

EASTER VACATION TO BEGIN ON APRIL 7

College exercises will close for the Easter recess at 11:00 a. m. on April 7. The 8 and 9 o'clock classes will meet as usual, the chapel service will be omitted, the 10:30 classes will meet at 10:00 and the remaining exercises of the day will be omitted.

Special arrangements will be made with the Rutland Railroad for attaching extra coaches to the mid-day trains. College exercises will be resumed at 8:00 a. m. Tuesday, April 18.

ANNOUNCE 1923 JUNIOR PLAY CAST

23 Named—C. Leonard To Play Lead

"A Tailor Made Man", Play Selected, Is Bright Comedy in Four Acts

Announcement has been made by Professor William S. Burrage and the Junior Play Committee of the complete cast of the 1923 play "A Tailor-Made Man" to be presented Junior Week. Tryouts for the cast were held at Professor Burrage's residence Friday evening for the men and Saturday afternoon for the women. Competition for the women's parts was especially keen, there being only seven parts open to the women. The total cast numbers twenty-three.

Charles L. Leonard, captain of the 'varsity basketball team, was chosen for the lead, the part played by Grant Mitchel in the New York production and Muriel A. Barker has been given the lead for the women's college.

Play Centers About Bart

"A Tailor Made Man" is a bright comedy in four acts by Harry James Smith and was played to large audiences several seasons ago at New York and on the road. The manuscript has since undergone several revisions, the last being made with the cooperation of George M. Cohan.

The play, while classed as a comedy and abounding in amusing situations, contains all of the other elements which go to make up a well-balanced stage production. The hero, to be played by Mr. Leonard, typifies young America with his vigor and determination, and his justifiable self-confidence. The heroine, Miss Barker's role, born of foreign parentage is a true daughter of the people yet distinctly American.

PRINT CONSTITUTION

Committee to Explain Work to Student Body

Friday evening at 7:15 p. m. in McCullough Gymnasium a mass meeting of the men of the college will be held to consider the presentation of the Honor System by the Honor System Committee. The Committee has issued the following statement:

"The Honor System Committee has completed its preparations, has drawn up the constitution, as printed in this issue of The Campus and is now ready to present the Honor System to the students and faculty. The Committee has been especially careful in providing in the constitution for a well selected, responsible Honor Committee. The success of the Honor System is dependent upon the development of a sense of responsibility in the student body for the System, the willingness of each student to report a cheat even though he be his best friend, and the selection of a responsible and respected Honor Committee. Each and every student of Middlebury College and every member of the faculty examine the constitution critically and be prepared to ask any questions which may arise as well as to suggest any revision, if necessary."

THE CONSTITUTION

DISCUSSION OF ATHLETIC SITUATION FOLLOWS BUSINESS OF UNDERGRAD. ASSOCIATION MEETING LAST NIGHT

SENIORS DECIDE TIME TO WEAR CAPS AND GOWNS

The familiar senior caps and gowns will not appear on the campus until four Sundays before Commencement, according to motion passed in senior class meeting last Friday. The graduating class voted to wear the gowns to Sunday chapel for four Sundays preceding Commencement and to daily chapel during the last week of college exercises. The class also authorized the Class Day Committee to make appointments for Class Day speakers. Junior marshals will be elected at next meeting.

MOREY DISCUSSES FOOTBALL RULES

Coach Reviews Regulations Recently Passed

Not Enthusiastic Over New Play Supplanting Goal From Touchdown

Coach Dave B. Morey in an interview with a Campus reporter yesterday outlined his views on the changes in football rules made at the meeting of the Football Rules Committee at the Hotel Biltmore, New York City, last Saturday. He is of the opinion that the new play to supplant the goal from touchdown is "not enough different from the free try to produce the thrills which are being forecasted with such enthusiasm" and "will develop a highly specialized offence for this particular play".

"The Football Rules Committee," said Coach Morey, "made one radical change in the game. This new rule does away with the free try for goal after a touchdown. The hastily drafted rule reads as follows: "When a touchdown has been made, the side scoring the touchdown has possession of the ball anywhere outside the five yard line for a scrimmage, from which by any legal play, run, pass or kick, it may score a field goal or a touch down and that the score of any character shall net one point."

"'From the spectators' standpoint this change will result in more thrills', say many coaches. I do not believe, however, that while the goal from the field is included among the methods of scoring this additional point that this change will result in many added thrills. The goal from the field will undoubtedly be the favorite method of scoring in this one play, and to make this play from scrimmage is not enough different than the free try to produce the thrills which are being forecasted with such enthusiasm. To my mind, if this feature had been eliminated, and the scoring of this one point had to be done by either a run or forward pass there would be some cause for expecting added thrills. A highly specialized offense for this particular play, involving offensive strategy, would result, if this change has been made for the benefit of the spectator and to produce team work, in the scoring of a leading point. I see no reason to enthuse, while this option in the goal from field is given.

"I look for much rougher and harder football, as a result of this change, and in this particular play. There will not be any involved change in this method

President Moody Further Explains Stand by Reference to Printed Statement in Last Week's Campus

OPPOSED TO "RINGER"

Coach Morey Also States His Position—Both Wish to Uphold Middlebury Tradition for Clean Athletics

At the suggestion and request of some of the undergraduates, President Moody appeared at the meeting of the Undergraduate Association Tuesday evening to speak further in explanation of the statement made last week in The Campus. He declared himself unable to express himself much more clearly than he had there and declared that most of the deductions which had been made from the article had been made from a hasty reading or a deliberate misunderstanding and that every individual who had discussed it with him had been unable to take exception to one sentiment expressed.

He read two letters, one from a graduate and another from one of the leading academy principals, both of which stated the writer's impression that Middlebury was making scholastic concessions to athletes. This, President Moody declared was absolutely false and most unfair to the men in college who were both good athletes and scholars. The only thing for which he contended was the maintenance of a reputation which should be above suspicion of this kind.

Coach Morey States Views

At the close of his statement, an opportunity was afforded for questions and none being asked, Coach Morey stated what he believed was the athletic policy of the college, and what he felt to be liable to misunderstandig in the printed statement of President Moody. He stated his position as being opposed to the "ringer", as strongly as any one else, and declared that up to the present there had been none and that the scholastic requirements were so hgih as to preclude such.

The meeting ended with a statement from President Moody that in regard to our reputation we were dealing not with a theory but a condition and that too much care could not be taken to safeguard most jealously the reputation of sport here, and that pleasant as a sense of approval from every undergraduate naturally was, he was in the last analysis answerable to more than the undergraduate body, being responsible to trustees, alumni and the traditions of the past and to these he would endeavor to be obedient, no matter what storms of undergraduate disapproval had to be endured in passing.

Revision of Point System

The business session of the meeting resulted in the passing of a revision, recommended by the auditing committee and approved by the Student Council regarding the point system of the Undergraduate Association constitution. But few changes are made in the original point ratings, but additional credit for minor positions on the teams and committees was recommended.

VOL. XVIII March 15, 1922 NO. 21

The Honor System

Friday evening a mass meeting of Middlebury men will be held to discuss the adoption of the Honor System here. It is with the heartiest approbation that The Campus witnesses the presentation of the Honor System but we hope that no attempt to take a final vote will be made at this meeting. It hardly seems that enough sentiment has been crystalized to warrant either the acceptance or rejection of the system. Undergraduate attention has not been sufficiently aroused nor has student opinion been sufficiently informed, in season to justify a final presentation at this time.

The Honor System admits of no compromise. Its foundation in any institution must be a spirit of honor in the student body. If the sense of moral obligation is lacking, then this system is, from the first, doomed for failure. It must be an Honor System in fact as well as in name or the reputation of Middlebury and the self respect of every man who comes under its dominion will suffer. Far better to have the old proctor system with all its acknowledged faults than an Honor System which will command only half-hearted support. The man who is only half-heartedly in favor of its adoption must place himself on record as opposed to its installation. It is a man to man proposition and each man must weigh the facts, consider carefully and make his decision. He must not dodge the issue. He must not flinch before a decision. If he does, he jeopardizes sacred traditions of Middlebury. It is a proposition of this nature which will receive its first formal presentation before the men Friday. It is time to do some thinking.

Correction

In last week's edition of The Campus Kalin '23 was reported as elected to the position of assistant associate business manager. This was an error. Calef '24, not Kalin, was elected.

KATHERINE BATES AT ENGLISH SCHOOL

To Be Regular Instructor at Summer Session

Miss Annie Beecher Scoville to Assist in Shakespeare Course

Katherine Lee Bates will be one of the regular instructors at the School of English the coming summer. Professor Bates will read with small groups of students six of Shakespeare's plays, one each week, and enrich her course with discussions of Shakespeare's time, life, and art, in which field she is an authority. Associated with Dr. Bates in this course will be Miss Annie Beecher Scoville, of Stamford, Conn. Miss Scoville is a granddaughter of Henry Ward Beecher, and as a lecturer is said to have many of the qualities of her famous grandfather.

Granddaughter of Pres. Bates

Especial interest attaches to the appointment of Professor Bates to the Bread Loaf School since she is a granddaughter of a former President of Middlebury and received the honorary degree of Litt. D. from Middlebury in 1914. She is the recipient of a similar degree from Oberlin and is a graduate of Wellesley in the class of 1880 and received her Master's Degree at the same institution in 1891. She is author of several volumes of poems and has edited works of many of the principal English authors, being especially well known for her editions of Shakespeare's plays and her scholarly work in Elizabethan literature. Students of Middlebury College know her through their favorite hymn, "America the Beautiful."

Miss Scoville was a student both at Wellesley and at Oxford and has traveled widely. She is well known as a lecturer on Indian life and negro folk songs. Her knowledge of Indian literature she gained by first-hand investigations on various trips to the Dakota, Omaha, and Winnebago Indians. She has been a teacher at Hampton Institute and has had charge of negro work at Johns Hopkins hospital in Baltimore. Miss Scoville is also especially well known as a lecturer on the Old Testament as literature. In addition to assisting Miss Bates in the course in Shakespeare, Miss Scoville will give several lectures before The English School.

DISCUSS BONUS FOR EX-SERVICE MEN

President Moody, Adams '22 and Gallagher '23 Give Reasons for Opposition and Support

President Paul D. Moody, Murray Adams '22, and Elbert T. Gallagher '23, addressed an audience which packed the Old Chapel to capacity last Thursday afternoon, stating their reasons for opposing and favoring the granting of adjusted compensation by the national government to ex-service men. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Wetherell Debating Club, Professor Allen M. Kline, faculty member of the executive committee of the Club, presiding.

President Moody opened the meeting by stating his reasons for opposing the adjusted compensation legislation now before Congress. Gallagher and Adams followed President Moody and explained their reasons for favoring the granting of a bonus for ex-service men. The meeting was in the nature of a discussion and not a debate.

Rev. Nathan R. Nichols '66 is collecting material for a Nichols' geneology which begins with his great, great grandfather who settled in Danby, from East Greenwich, Rhode Island. The Periscope

Greek 14
to
William S. Burrage

A scholar gone! think this of him:
Scant of heart, of insight dim;
Potential memory overpack'd,
Crushed with undigested fact;
He loved the things that mattered naught,
Mistrusted genius, doubted thought.
This prof. taught with pious zest
What most should deaden interest,
And still forebore the cause to seek
Why college students hated Greek.
"Forlorn"

Our personal theory of the etymology of "Pro and Con" is Proposal and Congress.

If we can believe Rip Gallagher's splendid words, "Compensation comes from the Latin 'compensatio'",—what further need has Congress to engage in heated debates over a bonus for the ex-soldier?

Furthermore, quoting directly from the words of his co-plotter, I Murray Adams,—"an amount equal to a college professor's salary, $600",—we don't see why the profs aren't better entitled to "adjusted compensation."

The Last Word in Censorship

Some idea of the roundabout ways which news takes may be gleaned from the New York Tribune's accrediting of Secretary Hughes' "I Wrote the Treaty" story to "The Tribune's European Bureau."

With the snow's departure from Chapel walk, none of the thrills of a cinder path artist are denied the common layman making a hasty run to class.

Try This On Your Piano

With the growing concern in Asiatic affairs of the present day, Y. D. opportunely submits the following recently accepted version of the Siamese national anthem,—to be sung "with feeling" and to the tune of "America", he adds.

"Ova ta nas Siam,
Gee va ta nas Siam,
Ova ta nas.
Va ta damas Siam,
Ova ta nas Siam;
Gee va ta nas Siam,
Ova ta nas."

Now that Dr. Wendt has realized the age-old dream of science in transmuting metals by heating, it begins to seem plausible that a mighty conflagration might eke out a drop or two of gold from the countless bales of German marks now reposing in this country.

In these days of much controverted international policies, if other means failed us in distinguishing between Democratic and Republican administrations we could still keep our heads straight by comparing the length of their respective "notes".

If these were the sole bone of contention between the two leading parties we could even conceive of the New York Times and The World becoming administration papers on pure economic grounds.

With the announcement that "The Tailor Made Man" is to carry a cast of thirty it looks as though there might be some truth in the report that Manager Joe Austin is beginning to worry about an audience.

Forsooth, it looks as though he were planning to accommodate all of them on the stage.

As the Wetherell Club would have it. "Meet you in the Old Chapel at four."

COMMUNICATION

Prof. Bryant To Perform Foucault's Experiment in Physics Laboratory Thursday and Friday

To the editor of The Campus:—

It would be very strange if any of your readers question the statement that the earth turns around on its axis once in twenty-four hours, and yet I wonder how many of them have ever considered how this commonly accepted belief was proved. The proof of any scientific theory is a set of facts which can be accounted for by the theory, and in no other way. Very few of your readers have ever seen any such proof of the earth's rotation. The ancients believed that the earth was stationary with the heavens revolving about it, a belief fully justified by anything they had ever seen, and by anything which most people even today have ever seen.

It was not until 1851 that a definite proof was obtained. This was the famous pendulum experiment of Foucault. He suspended a large iron ball from the dome of the Pantheon at Paris by a wire over 200 feet long, and set it swinging as a pendulum. If the earth did not rotate the pendulum would keep swinging always along the same line. But in Foucault's experiment the direction of the pendulum continually shifted clockwise. Each time the ball returned to the south end of its swing, it was about one-tenth of an inch west of its previous position, and the same distance to the east of its previous position at the north end of its swing.

This steady shifting of the direction of swing can be explained by assuming the rotation of the earth, and in no other way. Consequently it stands as a scientific proof of that rotation.

The experiment has been repeated many times, but the value of it largely disappeared because the pendulums soon begin to swing in elliptical paths,

SET NEW RECORDS FOR REGISTRATION

Enrollments for Both Colleges Far in Excess of Those Last Year at This Time

Registrations in both the men's and the women's college are far in excess of those of last year at this time, it was reported at the office of both the dean of men and the dean of women today. Up to last year the college had been able to accommodate nearly all of its applicants in the residence halls, but the large entering class, totaling 163, forced them to seek accommodations in the houses near the campus. Dean Edgar J. Wiley stated that application for admission to the men's college was nearly double that of last year at this time, while the applications for rooms is equal to that of July 1 of last year. In the women's college, Dean Eleanor S. Ross, stated that the applications for admission were far in excess of those of last year, while room applications were nearly double those of March 8, 1921.

While last year's entering class was limited to 100 men and 60 women, no definite action has been taken to extend this limitation on the class of 1926. Final action on the matter will be taken by the Board of Trustees meeting here next June, it was stated at the president's office.

PLAN Y. W. C. A. RECREATION ROOM

Pearsons Gymnasium To Be Transformed Into Recreation and Reading Room—Committees Chosen

Plans are now under way for the arrangement of a Y. W. C. A. Recreation Room to be located in the old gymnasium in the basement of Pearsons Hall. The walls and ceiling of the gymnasium are to be freshly painted, while cretonne hangings for the windows, rugs, comfortable chairs and pillows, reading tables, magazines and possibly other features, will work the rest of the transformation. The room will be used for regular Y. W. C. A. meetings, and aside from this may be utilized at all times for general recreational purposes by any one irrespective of Y. W. C. A. membership.

The work of renovation will be divided among a great many sub-committees, the services and suggestions of all girls in any way interested being earnestly desired. The General Committee, which is under the direction of Matilda Axton '22 as chairman, includes Dean Eleanor S. Ross, Miss Ruth Graham, Dorothy Douglas '22, Louise Jennings '22 and Anne Littlefield '22 ex-officio.

To partially defray expenses, a benefit motion picture entertainment will be given in the Opera House on Monday evening, April 27. DR. O. A. PETTY SUNDAY PREACHER

New Haven Pastor Delivers Inspiring Sermon

Need Viewpoint, Vision and Virility For Development of Soul

The Reverend Orville A. Petty of Plymouth church, New Haven, Conn., a colleague of President Moody, overseas, preached a most inspiring sermon at the vespers service Sunday. His text was Psalm 31:8, "Thou hast set my feet in a large place." One's soul is only as large as his world in which he carries on. The supreme values are in reach of all, but to grow a really great soul, three things are essential.

Dr. Petty explained the width and depth of man's soul, and the way in which it might be made larger and more manifest. He showed that experience is the greatest factor in determining the size of the soul; experience governed by environment, appraisement of values, and tasks accomplished. One's soul is only as large as his world, especially that world of one's best actions, thoughts, and motives.

There are three essentialities upon which the size of the soul depends. The first one is that of a person's attitude. The easiest way to gain insight into any one's character, Dr. Petty explained, is to note how he spends his spare moments. It is not so much the matter of looks, dress, or appearance that counts, as it is the attitude of a person, no matter where he may be situated.

The second essential is that of insight or vision. Dr. Petty urged that we cultivate not only the progressive vision; but also the poetic and prophetic element of soul possessed by all truly great people.—"The dreamer lives forever, the toiler dies in a day."

Thirdly, Dr. Petty suggested that a resolute moral virility accompany the other two essentials for the growth of one's soul. He encouraged us "to seek the clear vision and courage of Jesus who dared to die that men might understand the possibilities that unite in leading us toward God."

Jesus Christ was not only a prophet but he was also the greatest example of progress and achievement the world has ever known. As Victor Hugo said—"It is nothing to die, but it is terrible not to live". Man must have the courage of Jesus who dared to die that men might have the possibility of souls, stanch within and without, and toward God.

DEAN ROSS SPEAKS AT Y. W. C. A. MEETING

Miss Eleanor S. Ross, Dean of Women, addressed the meeting of the Y. W. C. A. held Thursday evening in Pearsons Social Hall. Miss Ross took the words "Take heed to thy self" as the theme of her talk, her three points being "Know thyself, control thy self, deny thy self." She said that the first leads to culture and intellectual development, the second to the building of character, the third to self-sacrifice.

The meeting was in charge of the girls of the sophomore class, and was led by the vice-president Dorothy Taylor.

Members Deliver Papers on Present Day Poets at Regular Meeting of English Club Thursday

"Recent Poetry" was the topic at the meeting of the English Club last Thursday evening in the Music Studio. The meeting was in charge of Haskins 2'2, Brautigam '22, Miss Beulah Scott '23, Kalin '23 and Miss Dole '23. Mr. Haskins read a paper on the general development and characteristics of "The New Poetry."

Edward Arlington Robinson was treated by Brautigam, while Miss Beulah Scott illustrated with readings from Robinson's works. Kalin read a paper on Karl August Sandsberg, the extremely radical and socialistic Scandinavial Iconoclast, and also read several of his poems with a high degree of effectiveness. Edgar Lee Masters was the theme of Miss Vie Dole.

Following the more serious side of the program, an exceedingly clever, humorous drama was presented by Miss Ann Littlefield '22, Miss Doris Ashworth '22, Miss L. Taylor '24, Miss Axton '23, Miss Woodruff '22, Crew '22, and Klimm '24.

CHOOSE NAME FOR LITERARY MAGAZINE

"Philomathesian" Formally Adopted as Title for New Undergraduate Literary Magazine

The title "Philomathesian" was formally adopted for the new undergraduate literary magazine at a meeting of the board Wednesday afternoon in Old Chapel. The name was originally borne by a literary and debating society which had its beginning in 1806 and marked one of the earliest evidences of such activity at Middlebury.

The first issue of the magazine will appear just before the Easter vacation and the final number of the year at Commencement time. Thus it will not be until next year that publication is established on a quarterly basis. The Board of Trustees, at its recent meeting, voted an annual appropriation of three hundred dollars for the Philomathesian, but the management is planning to make the magazine entirely self-supporting. Actual solicitation of subscriptions will begin this week or as soon as all of the copy for the first number is received by the editors, and the contract drawn up with the publishing firm.

which continually become broader until the true direction was entirely lost. Professor Lowden of Knox College has investigated very thoroughly the causes of this tendency, and has devised a suspension which practically eliminates it. We have recently set up a pendulum in the Physics Laboratory suspended according to his method. It will be set swinging about 4:15 o'clock Thursday and Friday afternoon of this week, and any students interested enough to appear there can see this proof of the rotation of the earth. At this latitude, the floor would make a complete rotation under the pendulum in 34.55 hours. This makes it turn a little more than 2.5 degrees in 15 minutes, a very evident rotation.

all home games. The suggestion has been made to improve the field during the vacation, removing the uneven and ragged sod and having the infield refilled.

The squad has been so large this year that a cut will necessarily have to be made. It is expected that this cut will be made Saturday, and that the first string squad will be announced shortly thereafter. This cut is only expected to affect the infield, while at present no cut is expected in the battery candidates.

Fourteen Pitchers Out

While there is a fair amount of promising material for the pitchers box, the chief weakness of most of the candidates is their lack of experience. As has been stated but two veteran letter men remain, while the other upper class candidates have proved their success in the inter-fraternity league. In this group there is Brown '22, Haskins '22, Witham '24, Doe '24, Leach '22, and Coates '24. Among the first year men who show great promise is Moynihan, Herzig, Gonzalvis, Riegelman, Savitt and DeGroff.

In the catchers position there is not quite so much material, but Coach Morey entertains great hopes for Conly '25 who looks very good at the present time. Kilbride, who is also a first year man, has made a very good showing, but lacks the experience. Savage '24, Lobo '24, and Leary '25 are the other three candidates for the position vacated by Jack Mead, last season's catcher.

Competition For First Base

First base is keenly contested, two letter men being out for the job. Gallagher '22, and Captain Timberman '22, have snapped into form quickly, while from the freshmen ranks comes Holquist, who looks good in the corner position.

Drost '23, and D. Ross '23 are the only two upper classmen out for second base. Klevenow and Daley of the freshmen group are making strong bids for the position, and will probably give the two upper classmen a little work for the job.

Seven Men Try For Third

Third base is the most heatedly contested, of the infield positions, seven men being out for the berth, with one veteran already on the ground. Stockwell '22 will find that he has a real contest on his hands with White '23 and Vose '24. Both White and Vose played on last year's nine, and toward the end of the season White held the third bag position. He failed by a very small margin to make his letter. Three freshmen are also out for the place, Banks, Farnsworth and Long showing their wares in competition with the upper classmen for the berth.

"Dad" Ross '22 is back for the position at short, to find two freshmen also trying out for the place. Papke '25 has shown quite marked ability at picking them up, while Sturtevant '25 has also demonstrated his ability at this position.

I. Philip Bower '19 is now located at Ashland, Va., where he has a chicken farm.

ANNOUNCE SELECTION OF 1923 JUNIOR PLAY CAST

She is fond and appreciative of talent and energy, rather than of brains; as she says, she "likes men who do things."

The two leading character parts are given to Peter the tailor's assistant, a hard-headed Scotchman, thrifty and unimaginative, to be played by Mr. Shelvey who takes no pains to hide his scorn of the idealism of John Paul Bart—and to the adventuress, Mrs. Du Puy, portrayed by Miss Abel, a witty, though cynical and ambitious woman, burdened with an obedient, but totally uninteresting daughter, Bessie.

The whole interest of the play centers in watching John Paul Bart rise from a position of obscurity, to one of honor and responsibility. He begins his very humble business career, as an assistant to Mr. Huber, the tailor. It is with much dissatisfaction that he continues working in a position where his talents and abilities can not be displayed to better advantage. An opportunity for displaying these talents comes to him when he has a chance to get possession of a dress suit and gain admission to a ball at the house of Mr. Stanwell. Mr. Nathan, one of New York's leading financiers is to be present at the ball.

In the next act John Paul incognito attends the reception. Through sheer nerve and skill he succeeds admirably in having himself accepted as a friend of the great Mr. Nathan. His adventures are numerous.

The third act takes place in an office of the American Oceania Ship-building Corporation. John Bart has risen to the position of one of Mr. Nathan's assistants. The climax is reached when Dr. Sonntag, Tanya's fiancee, out of jealousy, announces his intention of exposing Bart, and publishing the story of the stolen dress-suit in every New York newspaper. Bart, realizing the fatality of such a step, partially defeats Sonntag's purpose by giving out the story first, in his own words.

Thinking that all is lost, Bart retreats to his old position in the tailor shop, from which he is soon rescued when Mr. Nathan solves the difficulties.

of running shift plays. The rule committee states that shifting players must come to a full stop with both feet on the ground long enough to allow the official to see that the play is legal. In this case there is much left to the official. Some officials will judge quicker than others, and teams using shift plays will be at the mercy of the officials.

"Heretofore", said Coach Morey, "if the captain winning the toss selected the goal the other captain was obliged to kick off. A change in the rule will be given the captain losing the toss a choice. A man removed from the game may not return in the same half. This rule will prevent the removing of a player for example in the third quarter for the sole purpose of giving him instructions and sending him back in the fourth quarter. The rule in regard to 'clipping' remains about as it was last year."

DISCUSS ATHLETICS AT UNDERGRADUATE MEETING

The auditing committee reported that a deficit in the football accounts amounted to $572.78, while the basketball report shows a loss of $27.36.

To Issue Athletic Passes

Minor actions taken were the placing of the custody of the official "M" in the hands of the Student Council, and granting them the power to procure them when needed and distribute them to the proper individuals. The sentiment of the Association was found to favor the granting of passes by the Athletic Council to those who in their opinion would best serve the best interests of Middlebury. It was passed to award shingles to the minor sport letter men.
